Please help myself, a breast cancer survivor, and those yet to be diagnosed, by supporting this very important bill. It is critical that we obtain this additional tool as we journey through an already difficult path to obtain and maintain our physical health. The benefits are far-reaching. Early detection provides women with the best case scenario in fighting this disease and will ultimately improve a woman's ability to maintain family, workplace and community commitments. In addition, it is reasonable to believe that in the long run, early detection, and the treatment options available at that level are more effective/less costly than those required by women with a more advanced breast cancer diagnosis. It just makes sense.

Respectfully,

Sue E. VanDuinen
