

bill 4822

House Bill 4822 is a bill that is meant to help kids with their reading. If passed, kids will have to pass a certain score on their reading tests in order to go to fourth grade. I think this bill should not pass because it would make kids sad that they won't have their friends in their class anymore. It would not be fun to get held back because you would learn the same stuff over and over again. It would make school boring and could make kids hate school. Also, It would hurt the students self-esteem, and it might make the student not want to try as hard at school. I believe this bill will negatively affect the student's' life. A better bill would help the kids with their reading in school without keeping them in third grade longer than they

No this bill should not pass because some schools do a lot of reading other schools do little reading. Struggling reading would receive extra and early attention in school but could be a year under controversial legislation approved. Thursday by the Michigan House. The third reading proposal which complements a literacy push by gov Rick Snyder would prohibit schools from promoting students to fourth grade. Representative Amanda Price made the bill cause 3rd graders have some hard time reading . If kids got held back for 1 or 2 years if they did get held back that long they would hate school because they would learn the same stuff and it does not help the student. Cause Senators and Representatives are not teachers they do not know the stress that student will feel when told they must repeat 3rd grade due to a poor test score the 1 test. You should look at multiple forms of data . Or ask the teacher or parent. What if schools or parents do not have enough money to add more reading opportunities or if schools are already spending a lot of time reading. 30 of students in 3rd grade did not pass so if there are 20 kids in each class that leaves 6 students to get held back. That is crazy !.

austin hughes

age 10

Grandville

Cummings Elementary